(Written for the Richmond Dispatch.) The Cruise of the "Tallahassee "

THURSDAY, 18TH. - Morning came in cold and wet-the dense for that hung ly feeling in England or her colon'es heavily over the water lacking only the name to be a shower. We made Samoro the rocky coast towards the mouth of the harbor. Presently we saw a small boat coming through the mist, and a cheery Irish voice asked if we wanted a pilot .and took the ship from the fisherman, who laughed at; but still affairs began to look was only permitted to take in vessels when serious. no pilot was at hand. He was satisfied. however, and went on his way rejoicing with two or three pounds of tobacco in his pocket. Being wet and disagreeable on deck, we saw but little of the scenery in going up the bay. Getting short glimpses through the open posts, we saw the shore was well cultivated and dotted here and there with little white villages. There are also some fine farms that stretch back from the water—the green pasture lands covered with sheep and cattle. it is eight miles only to the city, and in less

For some days back the Yankee papers have been filed with the doings of the play pirate "Tallabassee," and a large number of small boats soon surrounded the ship, filled with curious individuals, anxious to see what she was like. A few friends were permitted on board, but a majority were refused, and had to be content with an outside view Several boat leads of Yankees were pointed out to us; probably sent off by the Yankee consul for the purpose of gaining information.

About 9 o'clock, Captain Wood called upon the Admiral Sir James Hope, and upon his return we were permitted to go on shore.

Halifax is a city of some forty thousand inhabitants. The houses are built principally of wood, and have an air of age, although the main portion of the town is comparatively new. Along the bay is the business portion, and back upon the hill the residences of the merchants and the military. The land upon which the city is built rises rapidly from the water into a hill, crowning which is the citadel, a strong and heavily armed for tress, protecting the town and command ing the harbor. At the present time the garrison consists of the Sixteenth and Seventeeth battalions, with detachments of the Royal Artillery. In the harbor is St. George's Island also heavily fortified and garrisoned by the artillery. Halifax is quite a business town, and stores and warehouses increase with great rapidity as the trade annually enlarges. Its fine harbor gives it many natural advantages. It would be superfluous to enter into a detailed description of the town in this diary, and I pass it by with the few re marks already made.

The people generally are very friendly to the South, but in too many justances I can but think it an interested friendship. They derive great benefit from sou hern trade, and, undoubtedly, are honest in their sympathy and in their admiration for Confederate valor. A few men can be mentioned who have done a great deal for our cause, and have shown their sympathy in something else besides empty words .-Among these are Dr. W. J. Almon, Dr. Slayter, B. Weir & Co., A. Keith, Mr. Pillsbury, editor of the Journal, who has taken a strong stand in our favor. Dr. Almon; especially, has done all in his power, and we were indebted to him for many kindly acts. Through his energy we obtained a mast to replace the one lost, and his whole time while we were there seemed devoted to us. I have reason to be very grateful to him, and many other Confederate officers can say the same; for he is never weary of good deeds. A son of Dr. Almon is an esteemed surgeon in our army. The archbishop, also, is very friendly to us, and his heart, his house, and his purse, have ever been open to needy Confederates. The British officers are unanimous in their expressions of friendship; but I notice a great change in their feeling. Policy seems to control them, and the fear of their Yankee neigh-bors is evident. I had an acquaintance in the Seventeenth, Captain -, who, when I was in Halifax last winter, was very warm and open in his sympathy for our cause. Now, I could but notice the cautious manner of his expression. There is a change in the feeling plainly seen, owing, probably, to the course of the Government, which grows daily inimical to us. The colonial administration is controlled entirely by Lord Lyons at Washington, who is, as is well known, completely under the thumb of Yank? Minister of State, Mr. Seward. In every instances where the governor of one of the colonies, or other high official, was friendly to the South, be has been removed and another of the Lord Lyons school appointed. This is seem in all the Canadian appointments; in the removal of Lord Melgrave and the appointment of Dr. Richard McDonald, Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia; the removal of Admiral Milne, and of Governor Bailey, of Nassau. The appointees are in every instance strongly against us.

Dislike of slavery is at the bottom of all this, and, also, fear of the Yankees .-Every day it becomes more and more ev -

dent that we have no hope from any friend-FRIDAY, 19TH. - Went ashere about twelve to-day, but had been there but a Head at an early hour, and then ran along short time before an order erme to go on board at once, as there was a rumor of some difficulty with the authorities. Ever since our arrival the telegraph to the States had been monopolized by the American To be sure we did-and a red-faced Consul, Judge Jackson, and it was unweather-bearen young fishman clambered derstood that Lord Lyons had telegraphed over the side. At the entrance to the a very emphatic order to send that vessel harbor, or rather Chebucto bay, we stop- to sea." During the day, Judge Jackson ped to fire the guns, the law prohibiting, had made a requisition upon the Governor, at least, courtesy forbidding, us going ment for the steamer, demanding, very into a neutral port with shotted guns. A | modestly, the crew and officers be deliverregular branch pilot now came off to us ed up in chairs. This demand was

The "Tallahassee" was on the Dartmouth side of the river taking in coal from a brig, and nearly all her officers were on shore. Early in the evening without a word or warning, several armed boats and launches were sent down to us with orders to go to sea at oace, and forbidding us to take over one hun red tons of coal, enough, it was said, to take the vessel into the nearest Confederate port. A naval officer was put on board to see that all dispate was used, and the boats anchored along side. This was rather galling to our than an hour we were anchored off the pride, and entirely unnecessary, for a simple order from the Admiral would have been sufficient without all this armed dis-

> All haste was now used to get the vessel to sea. Nearly one hundred tons of coal was taken on board, and a small quantity of oil and engineer stores, absolutely necessary. About dark we hanled out into the stream, and only waited the return of a guard party, sent out to look up some runaways, to go down the bay. Through the attention of Dr. Almon, we got a spar and hauled it up on the deck, ready to ship it as soon as we arrived in some port where we should be permitted to remain long enough for the purpose .-About nine o'clock the guard returned and reported twenty-seven men missing, evidently enticed away from the ship by Yankee emissaries. Judge Jackson had a hand in it, and it was remarked that this is not the first time he has been guilty of such dirty work. We could wait no longer, and, after dropping the naval officer into his boar, got under steam and soon left the town behind us.

Of course we were much disappointed with our treatment in Halifax and it was little expected, since so much friendship had been expressed by the people. But they are hardly responsible for the acts of the Government. Perhaps we excepted too much; at any rate, de-pite our condition, the law, custom or sympathy, we were peremptorily ordered to sea. I arned that the Queen's counsel decided while we were there that the vessel of a belligerent power has the right to go into a neutral port and remain long enough t make all necessary repairs, take in coal and twenty-four hours afterwards. Considering the feeling against us, I doubt if Captain Wood had seen fit to beg permission to remain, it would have been

While in Halifax, we saw the Yankee papers, containing accounts of our capures, and learned the excitement regarding us. Several vessels have been sent out in pursuit A Washington telegram

"The first information of the depreda tions of the pirate Tallahassee was re ceived by the Navay Department, on the 12th instant, after office hours. Secretary Welles immediately ordered the following vessels in pursuit, namely: Juniatta, Susquehanna, Eolus, Rontoosue, Dumbarton and Tristam Shandy, on the 13th; the Moceasin Aster, Zantic, R. R. Cuyler and Grand Gulf, on the 14th; and on the 15th, the De otah and Sah Jacinto .-These were all the vessels available in the

All these steamers, and more, starting out daily after one small vessel, short of coal and sadly in want of repairs! British neutrality! I stood on the deck, in the moonlight, thinking of the strange neutrality that works only against one side, and that perhap, the weaker.

About 11 o'clock we crossed the bar and ran out to sea, the lights on Sambro and the opposite point visible on either hand. In two hours' time we were far from land.

SATURDAY, 20TH .- Clear and colm .-Sea smooth. We run due east for several hours until well off the coast, then turned direct for Witmington. In the evening, captured schooner Roan, of Salsbury, Massachusetts, from Newburyport to Long Bay, Cape Breton, for a cargo of coal .-The prisoners, stores and nautical instruments were taken, and the vessel fired. This ends our second week out. [CONCLUDED IN OUR NEXT.]

RALEIGH. N. C. TUESDAY, SEPT'R 27, 1864.

Obituary. OLIVER H. HARRIS.

OLIVER H. HARRIS.

The Masonic fraternity of Frankliston Lodge, No. 128, have been called by the dire fate of war to lament the death of an esteemed and worthy brother, OLIVER H. HARRIS, who was the son of Washington Harris, present State Senator, and was born in Franklin County, N. C., in March, 1938. On the first day of June, 1861, he obeyed his country's call to her defence; was wounded 18th July, 1864, while gallantly battling for free-man's rights, and on the 3d of August, 1864, he forever closed his eyes on the land of his nativity, on whose sucred altar he shed his last blood in the hallowed cause of independence. As a brave and patriotic soldier, he acted under the apt and inspiring sentiment of the Poet: spiring sentiment of the Poet :

"If there be on this earthly sphere,
A boon, an off ring Heaven holds dear,
'Tis the last libation liberty draws,
From the heart that breaks and bleeds in her

In this last tribute of regard and fraternal love to our deceased brother, we would extend our heartfelt sympathy to parents and kindred in their sad becavement; and though we are separated here, may it be our happy lot to re-unite with him in the Great Ledge above.

THE latest news from the North, shows the settling down of all the disgruptled sectarians into one or other of the two great parties represented by Lincoin and McCiellan. The opposition of the Woods, Vallandigham, and the strictly peace men, with their organs, the News, Freeman's Journal, &c., turns out to be too trifling to disturb the course of events. Perhaps Medary, of the Columbus Crisis, may stick to his principles, for he is an obstinate fellow, and has ever since the commencement of the war stood " fair and square" on the ancient doctrine of the "right of a people to govern themselves." He thinks, undoubtedly with much justice, that the peace men have been sold, and that the "sale" was a bad bargain, and " fraudulent" at that; and he enunciates the well settled principle, that " a fraudulent sale is not binding in law; nevertheless, fraudulent sales frequently pass the batteries of the law without being scathed, and reach secure positions where they are im-

Medary's opposition will do no harm. He will be regarded as a disorganizer, and will be "left out in the cold." The talk of Bogy and Vallandigham has resulted in the latter's adhering to McClellan, and already the speeches of Voorhees and Vallandigham are published from the Democratic offices, as the great electioneering documents for the campaign. And it never occurs to any one of the Yankee politicians, or the gulls of people who read these truly admirable productions in which the revered teachings of the declaration of independence are maintained, that the Chicago nominee in whose behalfthese speeches are published, is a living enemy of those sacred principles-who has applied the torch for their consumption, and is only wanting the power to go forward and forever descroy the foundation stone of our fathers' great workthat "Government derives its just powers from the consent of the governed"-and establish in its place a union, not of voluntary associates, but of a lordly and domineering majority, controlling and binding a minority unwilling but unable to resist.

It appears that however motley the views of the various partizans are, they will mix, and McClellan will combine the vote of the whole democracy. On the other hand the opposition to Lincoln waxes fainter and more faint. Fremont, if not already withdrawn, is likely soon to be, and he will probably retire into some mountain fastness to mourn the folly of a people who fail to appreciate the worth will subside and leave Lincoln in undisturbed serenity, master of the situation. It was supposed, and has been so said, that Chase was for peace and might oppose Lincoln .-Lately he was put to the test. Being serenaded by the Lincoln and Johnson club at Washington, he announced his purpose to go soon to Ohio and take the stump for the Republican ticket, on the Biltimore p'atform, which last, he said, embraced three propositions: The Union forever-"that the Union hal been assaulted by slavery and slavery must die the death that it deserves "-and the Moaroe doctrine. On this platform he meant to ask every vote in Ohio for Father Abraham. It mattered not that Seward had just said for Lincoln that the war was not for abolition -that all the nigger measures were just for war purposes, to end with the war, All this with Mr. Chase was nothing. He put his own construction on the platforn, and here, like on the democratic side, two leaders are to be found in the assertion of directly opposite tenets, derived ont of the very same language of their platform, yet both acting in harmony! What is the moral of all this? Why, that the rulers and the people have come "to believe a lie." Truth has no worshippers. Fraud and cheating monopolize the reason and the emsciences of men.-And this is the people, the nation who seek our everthrow, who are invading our soil and shedding the blood of our people, in order to force upon us their hateful association, to compel our suberdination to their government, and fasten upon us the same vile practices of fraud and falsebood which make them abominable in our eyes.

The Late Yankee Raid in the Valley.

The Richmond Dispatch of Saturday had learned from a citizen of Orange county that the raiding party of cavalry which lately appeared on the Orange and Alexandria railroad was seven hundred strong They came in great haste and retreated as hurriedly, doing but little damage beyond partially burning the railroad bridge over the Rapidan and destroying Holladay's mill. Their real object is said to have been to capture Mosby, of whose wound they had heard, and who they supposed would pass over that route on his way home. He, however was far beyond their reach, and arrived safely in Richmond by the Central train that evening. The report that he reached his father's residence, in Amherst, on last Sunday, was therefore er-

It was reported that the salders had again returned to Orange, and were threatening the lines of railroad communication.

Ir is said that Gen. Forrest has been placed in command of the whole cavilry of the army of Tennessee.

From our Cornerpondents in the Iniler. We give below from our regular correspon dent in Hoke's Beigade, the Pullest account we have seen, on our side, of the lettle neve Winchester on the 19th and also whist of the casqualties in Gen. Cox's Brigade, formerly Ranseur's, furnished us by Major Gales, A. A. General, written on the 21st, the day before Major G. was himself captured by the enc-

It seems, from the account given by our correspondent "Sigma," that it was a shameful panic and stampede among some of the cavalry, that caused as to lose the advantage gained by a decided victory our troops had achieved; and thus communicated to other troops in the army, resulted in a most disgraceful rout. The enemy had retired from befor i our victorious army, but hearing of the consternation and fleeing condition of our troops, they took advantage of it, deployed a portion of their troops and were about flanking Gen. Early, when he was compelled to fall back,

We have received no further advices of the battle on Thursday last.

Brig. Gen Johnson, of Lincoln county, we regret to hear, is reported among the killed on the 19th. We trust the report may prove unfounded. Our correspondents make no mention of it:

Special Army Correspondence of the Confederate.

From the Army of Gen, Early.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 20, 1864. Messrs, Editors : Yesterday was a bloody day to us, and bleodier still to our enemies. At daylight a spirited attack by cavalry was made upon Johnson's brigade, of Romseur's division, on the Berryville turupike, about twe miles from Winchester. The attack was gailantly repelled. But from the continued roar of artillery, and the constant firing of sharpshooters, it soon became apparent that the enemy meditated a general engagement. The main body of his forces seemed to be advancing up the turnpike from Berryville, flanking from the road right and left. Gens. Early, Breckinridge, Gordon, Redes and Ramseur, with the Generals of Cavaly, made their arrangements to give him a fitting reception. About 10 o'clock the artillery played most furiously. At 11, the action became general and raged with great fury for the space of half an hour, when our line of battle being hotly pressed, fell back a distance of about twe hundred vards and reformed in good order. The enemy continued to advance, and our troops, though greatly outpumbered, addressed themselves to the work before them like men determined to conquer or die. The Yankee line advanced slowly. Our brave fellows stood the are like Salamanders, and plied their rifles like men who were fighting for all that is worth living for.

Suah a scene I never witnessed. The battle field may nor be deemed by some a place for prayer; I think differently, and tried in my poor way to appeal for help to the Lard of Hosts. Who would not, when gazing at such a scene as this? The angel of death was reaping a fearful harvest. The Yankee line in a few minutes began to look ragged and rent. It wavered, confusion ensued, and the minions of the tyrant turned their backs and retreated in confusion. Then the shouts of victory rang along our lines so as to cheer the heart of every lover of his country.

Standing on the bloody field I could not forbear to lift up my heart and say, " blessed be the name of the Lord who hath given us the victory." The enemy retired some distance and attempted to reform. His artillery also fell back. His fire bad slackened, and everything on all sides combined to show that our victory was complete. This was about one o'cleck, and thinking the victory complete, I was engaged bringing the wounded into the city.

A little after three the enemy's cavalry made a demonstration on our left, along the Martinsburg turnpike. At this point was a brigade of cavalry called "Imboden's men;" and although Gen. Imboden was esteemed when living as the embediment of patriotism and valor, and now when dead, as the useful and efficient soldier, yet these men, without being pressed, gave way in confusion, and came rushing into the two leading streets of the town as much excited as if they had looked the god Pan in the face, and crying out as they came rushing along, "the Yankees are coming;" whilst clouds of dust were rising to heighten the scene. Wagoners, teamsters, ambulance drivers, negroes, boys, skulkers from the battle, and equads lottering about the field, all caught the panic and fell into the general rush, until it constituted a perfect storm of the madness of haman felly. Soldiers threw down their muskets about the fields and the streets, divested themselves of cartridge boxes, knapsacks and blankets, in order to run light; ambulances just returning from the battle-field went galloping off in this wild whirlpool, filled with the agonizing wounded, all tending to make "confusion worse confounded."

I was sitting in an ambulance in the street, by the dead body of Brig. Gen. Godwin, which I had just assisted in bringing off the battle. field, when looking down the street I saw the frenzied rush coming on towards me like a hurricane. Dreading its contact, I called to the driver to push with all speed, and if possible to keep before this current of madness until we could clear the town, reach the commons, and thus escape being run over. Upon clearing the town we halted. After the space of about five minutes the passing, rushing nass of confusion had pretty much abated, nd passed on. I got out to look for Yankees : took elevated positions; but, behold! I rould not discover a solitary "blue coat."-None could be seen, for none had entered the wn. Officers who have seen much that is exciting shoot battlesfields, tell me they have nesse witnessed anything that will begin to compare with the stampade at Winshester. The flying brigade of "Imbedda", men? communicated the panic also to a portion of Mc-Causland's command, who fled with them. This break upon our left, at this period of the day, enabled the enemy to A and our forces, and Gen. Early deemed it proper to fall back at dosk. Our trains, bringing off all the wounded we could, reached Strasburg during the night. Our troops are coming up to-day and taking position in the breastworks thrown up several weeks ago. This place is called the Cibralter of the Valley, and is eighteen miles from Winchester. We had to leave our dead in the bands of the enemy. We had gained a deeided victory in the field and were masters of the situation, but the part played by a body of undisciplined troops compelled us to drop the

Our loss is heavy, especially in officers, Major Gen. Rodes, and Brig. Gen. Godwin were killed. The latter commanded "Hoke's Old brigade." The colonel and Lieut Colonel of the 21st Georgia are among the fallen. Capt. Richardson, A. A. G. to Gen. Godwin, lost a leg. Lt. Col. Blis; commanding the 54th, N. C. T. was severely wounded in the left arm. It is impossible at this time to make out a list of casualties. But it will be a sad one when it shall appear. Our loss, I fear from the present lights before me, will run up nearly three thousand. That of the enemy was surely much greater and may sum up five thousand. We brought of about five hundred prisoners. The priseners inform us that Gen. Grant was in command and that Gen. Averill was killed. I will write you more fully two days hence.

Yours as ever,

The Fight in the Valley. The following is the Baltimore American's eport of the battle, furnished by a corresponlent writing from Winchester, 29th, 9 p. m. : Sheridan, having learned on Sunday that the main pertion of Early's force were encamped in the vicinity of Bunker's Hill and Stephenson's Depot, resolved to mass his forces on the Winchester and Berryville pike, and by a rapid movement hurl them on Early's rear. No doubt but the enemy were completely surprised and out-mancenvred by

Gen Sheridan. Whilst his different columns were being marched to the appointed place of rendczvous. a portion of the cavalry under Torbett and Averill, kept up a strong picket line along the Opequan, and by demonstrating in force at Burn's Ford, kept a large portion of the enemy at that part of the field, which was twelve miles distant from the point where it was intended our infantry should operate and strike the blow which should result in the signal defeat of Early's army. Delay in the arrival of the 19th corps enabled Early to move Gordon's division at double-quick from Bunker Hill, distant about ten miles, and bring it up in time to form in line of battle with Breckinridge's Ransom's and Rodes' commands, who had already arived and were formed in a belt of woods skirting the Berryville and Winchester pike.

As soon as the Mineteenth Corps arrived it was formed in four lines of battle, about three hundred yarde apart, on the right of the 6th Corps, and everything being in readiness the advance was sounded at about twelve o'clock, and the different lines moved forward.

The first line had not advanced more than two hundred vards before it became warmly engaged with the enemy, who were posted in ine about six hundred yards distant. At the same time our artillery opened a furious cannonade, throwing shells and solid shot into the opposite woods, where the enemy could be distinctly seen moving up reinforce-

Our different lines of battle continued to advance steadily until they had approached within nearly two hundred yards of the eneemy's line, when the rebels opened a furious cannonade with grape and canister from two batteries, which they had priviously kept secreted and which ploughed through our advancing lines, mowing down a large number

The first line was obliged to give way under se murderous a fire, and in retreating beyond the second line threw it into momentary confusion, and it was also obliged to fall back behind the third line, which had in the meantime been obliged to lay down in order to avoid as much as possible the effects of the withering fire which the enemy's batteries were directing against our advancing lines.

Our artillery was now brought up and posted in a commanding position to silence these batteries of the enemy which had caused so much annoyance, and our line was reformed and again moved forward, regaining the advanced position, which they had when they were obliged to fall back. But this success was not regained without most obstinate resistance on the part of the enemy.

Having regained the advanced position which we had previously occupied, the different lines of battle were ordered to lay down and wait the arrival of Croek's corps, which was held in reserve on the eastern side of the Opequah. They were ordered up to take position on the extreme right of the line, in order to counteract a movement on the part of the enemy, who were massing troops on their left flank, with a view of turning our

Precisely at 3 o'clock, Crook formed on the right of the Nineteenth Corps, the First Division the extreme right of our line, and the Second Division in the rear, supporting a division of the Nineteenth Corps. Gen. Crook having formed his men, rode along the lines, and was received with the most vigorous cheering, the men promising to "go in and wipe out Winchester."

Gen. Torbert, with Merritt and Averill's Division of Cavalry, having crossed the Opnequan about 9 o'clock at Burns and Knox's Ford's had been hard at work all day, fighting considerable bodies of the enemy's infantry and cavalry, and having been successful in steadrly driving them before them, now arrived on our extreme right, and were prepared to take part in the final struggle which secured us the victory. Gen. Sheridan rode out to where General Torbert was stationed, and after consultation with him as to the part the cavalry were to take ordered a final charge, which was made with an impetuosity which nothing could re-

Our line extending nearly three miles in length advanced amid cheers and yells, which could be distinctly heard far above the neise made by the thunder of artillery and continuous roar of musketry, which for impetuosity has seldom been exceeded in any battle of this

and nerved themselves accordingly for coming struggle, and as our lineared and clear to them of the energy, the matter care more fierce, tatil is point of these and fierce carriage it would compare a very characteristic and the structure of the star of the s The slaughter now was truly awful, and at every discharge men were distinctly seen to drop all around, and the two contending lines at some points could not have been over two bundred yards apart. Just at this critical period, above the roar of artitlery and musketry, and the cheere and fierce yells of the contending armies, could be distinctly heard the shrill notes of cavalry bugles sounding a charge, which was the death knell of Early's army.

The stubborn columns of Ewly's command were forced to give way and break before the fierce onslaught which our cavelry made upon them, who, with sabre in hand, rode them down, cutting them right and left, capturing seven bundred and twenty-one privates and non-commissioned efficers, with nine battle flugs and two guns. The broken and demoralized divisions comprising Early's command fled in confusion, throwing away every thing which could in any way impede their flight, and strewing the ground with their

Some made for the heights beyond Winchester, but they were speedily dislodged by Averill, and forced to beat a hasty and ignominious retreat up the valley, where such of Early's command as are left bim are now scattered.

Here follows a list of Yankee officers killed and wounded, including Mai. Gens. Russel and Upton, Brig. Gen. McIntesh, and Cols. Babenek and Bright.

It is estimated there are three thousand wounded in Winchester, and allowing for those who were carried away in ambulances, and who were able to hobble along, it will be a small estimate to place their wounded at four thousand, and the killed at five bundred. which, with the prisoners already captured, numbering three thousand, will make their loss seven thousand five hundred, equal to one of their corps.

It is impossible at the time of writing this dispatch to form any correct estimate of our killed and wounded, but from information at hand, they altogether will not exceed 500 killed and 2,500 wounded, if they amount to that

Another dispatch from Gen. Stevenson to Stanton says that among the rebel killed and wounded are Gens. Rodes, Ramseur, Gordon, Terry, Godwin Bradly, Johnson and Firz Lee. [Stevenson is a liar.]

From the Georgia Front.

About three thousand Atlanta exiles have arrived at Griffin from Atlanta, and more are coming. They are very destitute.

Mayor Calhoun, of Atlanta, arrived at-Griffin on Wednesday. He is deing all he can for the poor exiles at that place. It is stated that Gen. Forrest has been promoted and is now a Lieutenant General. From the Lovejoy correspondent of the Columbus Times of the 16th, we learn that owing to irreconcilable differences with Gen. Hood, Lientenant General Hardee has been relieved from the command of his corps .-Major General Cheatham will probably succeed him. Brigadier Saoup, Chief-of Staff, has been relieved from his position at his own request. Lieutenant Colone! McMicken, Chief Quartermaster of the army, has been removed by the Quartermaster at Richmond. and Major Ayer, formerty at LaGrange, one of the oldest Quartermasters in service, given the position. A getlemann from Villa Rica, Carroll co., Western Georgia, states that one hundred and fifty yankee cavalrymen made a raid on that place last Friday, broke open stores and robbed them of their contents-taking from one sixteen boxes of tobacco. A lady walking quietly along the streets was wantonly shot down, the ball shattering her thigh. These vandals then pressed herees and buggies to carry away their plunder.

A correspondent of the Macon Telegraph who has seen some of the exchanged prisonseners, has gathered some news from them, and writes thus from Griffin under date of Sept. 22nd:

The telegraph has stready apprised you of the exchange of one thousand prisoners at Rough and Ready, an insignificant little post on the railroad, a few miles this side of East Point. A portion of Lewis' Kentucky brigade walked down the track and reached here

These men were taken at the battle of Jonesboro, were marched to Atlanta and there placed under guard. The railroad at that time was not in operation in consequence of the operations of Gen. Wheeler, but as seen as trains commenced running they were started for Northern prisons. Seventy f them made their escape between Chattanooga and Nashville by cutting holes through the bettoms of the cars and dropping to the ground. When they got to Nashville, last Thursday night, they were ordered back by Gen. Sherman for exchange, and arrived at Atlanta on Tuesday, and immediately come down to Rough and Ready as stated above.

From Nashville to Atlanta the railroad is in fine running order. General Wheeler flourished a great deal, but actually did little damage. So vast were the preparations of the enemy for rebuilding bridges and relaying track, and so great were the guards and details along the lines, that as fast as one section of the road was torn up, it was immediately repaired. The enemy have new crossties and new bridge timbers in immense piles all along the track, and engines ad infinitum.

Chattaneoga and Dalton are garrisoned by three brigades of negroes. The streets of the fermer city, erested by southern industry and walked by southern chivalry and beauty, are new patroled by our former slaves to whom all white men are forced to exhibit passes, and if he fails to have such he is marched off to the guard house, and his case examined and his puaishment adjusted by the negro! The negrees scrupulously exact the military salutation of all passing their posts. Bancroft has here another chapter to write upon "the jubilee of convicts and slaves."

They have barracks there in which all Cen' federate and Federal deserters, "bounty jumpers," and military criminals are confined together, and constantly watched over by negrees. The Yankees seem not to have any respect for deserters from our army. The "bounty jumper" is a man who calists, receives his bounty money, deserts, goes to another point; repeats the operation, and so on until he is apprehended.

Atlanta is described as one vast military bee hive. Sherman's soldiers throng every street and are crowded in every house. The mest active work prevails on the fortifications, and if the enemy remain there long, it will be the strongest fortified city on the continent. The streets are swept perfectly clean, and everything kept in an excellent sanitary condition. Several hundred framed houses have been torn to pieces, and their timbers con-to build a new line to was rails taken from our own roads about the Frence, A.J Parks."

In relation to Sharman's men whose times were out, going some they say that they met. M. Doncenia. were without arms and many were not. They were not able to leare whether any that they any other point. They heard nothing of the whereabouts of Forrest and Wheeler, but as they saw no Federal cavary along the entire road, it is presumed that their force ran along the Tenuessee river.
